CATTLE EMBARGO IN MANILA.

Action, quick and definite, is contemplated in a suit filed in the court of first instance, says the Manila Times to hand, by Judge [Frederick Garfield Waite on Whark behalf of his client, George M. Lack, seek. ing a temporary injunction against Fred. erick W. Taylor, director of agriculture, to prevent the molestation by quarantine of six head of cattle which Mr Lack wishes to bring into the port from Hongkong, againsti[which city an embargo has been declared by the bureau. "

The complaint filed by Judge Waite alleges that his client is the owner of the six animals in question, and that they were purchased for the express purpose of importing them into the Philippines. That his client has made numerous verbal or written applications to the defendant to be allowed to bring in these cattle, but that the defendant has either avoided or neglected to reply to these requests.

Further the complaint states that the cattle are entirely free from all communicable animal diseaser, and have been so free for several months past.

In order to bring the matter to a quick decision, Mr Lack has ordered these animals forwarded to Manila by the first available transportation, and prays that a temporary restaining order be issued by the court to prevent the officials of the bureau of agriculture from imposing upon them a quarantine longer than is necessary to determine whether they are free from

This action will bring the long fought cattle question to a head without delay. If the court issues the order it will either place the bureau of agriculture in a position where it will have to defend its present attitude toward cattle from ports against which embargoes now exist, or its attitude will be upheld by judicial decision.

After reading the complaint, Judge Crossfield issued an order directing Mr Taylor to show cause not later than next Wednesday why a temporary injunction should not be issued. It is expected that a lively legal battle will ensue, as the bureau of agriculture will hardly recede from its position without a struggle.

Article Two.

(By S. A. Nagel, Hongkong.) The Bible is its own interpreter. " All Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in rightcousness." 2 Tim. 3: 16. _" Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation, for the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." 2 Pet. 1: 20, 21.

" Sourch the Secintures for in this think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me." John 5:39. The above testimony of Paul, Peter, and Jesus ought to be sufficient to convince any honest man of the inspiration of the Bible. It is the one "Guide Book " that all may safely follow. In the study of it, I will endeavour to fol low the rule laid down by Paul in 1 Cor 2: 13-" Comparing spiritual things with Jesus, after His resurrection, while on the way to Emmans with two of His disciples, explained to them the Scriptures. "Beginning at Moses and all the prophets, He expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning of Christ's first advent. The place where He should be born. His name, much concerning His life work, His death, etc. was forefold hundreds of years before His birth. Compare Isa. 7: 14: 9: 6 with Matt. 1: 22. Micah 5: 2 with Matt 2: 1-6. Hosea 11: 1 with Matt. 2: 15 Isa. 61: 1 with Luke 4: 16-20. Isa.

un. Read the account of His ascension in Acts 1: 9. "And when He had spoken these things, while they beheld, He was taken up; and a cloud received Him out of their sight," Notice it says " a cloud received Him." Now if He is to return in "like manner" we can only look for Him to come in the clouds of heaven. A few texts, of the many, speaking of this very thought will explain the question beyond a doubt. "Behold, He cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see Him." Rev. 1: 7.

"And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven; and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory." Matt. 24: 30.

" Jesus saith unto him, thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, hereafter shall 'ye see-the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven." Matt. 26: 64. Mark 13: 26. Luke 21: 27. . WHO WILL SEE HIM COME?

His coming will be no secret affair: for "every eye shall see Him." Rev. 1: 7. Company whatever. Jesus, after warning us against false Christ's and false prophets which will appear in different places, plainly tells Many of the old prophets prophesied us that His coming will not be confined to any one locality. "Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, He is in the desert; go not forth; Behold, He is in the secret chambers; believe it not. For as lightning cometh out of the east, and shincth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be." Matt.

CHRIST'S SECOND COMING.

That the angels are the reapers plainly taught by Christ in the parable of the tares. Matt. 13: 24-30; 36-43. In His explanation of the purable ellisays-" The field is the world. The good seed are the children of the kingdom but the tares are the children of the them is the devil. The harvest is the and of the world; and the respers are the Marvellous truths Christ taught in this parable. I. Angels are respers. II. A personal devil who is the origin of evil. III. A harvest at the end of the world. IV. The wheat and tares were both to grow together until the harvest and as the harvest is the end of the world—the ime when both classes receive their reward-therefore there can never come a time when all the tares will become wheat &r all the wheat become tures. A PECTURE OF RIS COMING.

That you may move easily conceive what Christ's coming will be like, I wish to bring before your mind one Bible piefure of this grandest of all scenes.

Thus far in our study we have found I. He will come again. II. All the holy angels will come with Him. III. He will come in the clouds. IV. Every eye shall see Him.

Luke 9: 26 adds still another thought to the picture by saying that He will come, " In His own glory, and in His Father's, and of the holy angels." Now the glory of the Father must exceed the glory of the Son. The glory of the Son must exceed the glory of an angel. There ire millions of angels. If I can give you a description of the glory of one ungel, you can Morm some little idea of shis glorious event.

After Jesus was crucified, the Jewish rulers went to Pilate and begged him to appoint a company of soldiers to watch his grave until the third day, " Lest his lisciples come by night and steal Him oway." Matt. 27: 64. Permission@was granted, " So they went and made the epulchre sure, scaling the stone, and etting a watch." Verse 66. The greater the number of soldiers.

the more remarkable was Christ's resurrection. " Behold, there was a great carthquake, for the angel of the Lord by all Chemists and Sturpkeepers.

descended from beaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and int upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his miment white as snow." What happened to the mighty Roman soldiers? "For four of him the heupers did shake, and became as dead men." Matt. 28: 2-4.

" Became as dead men " at the presence of one angel. What do you think will happen to mankind, both righteous and wicked, when Jesus comes in His own glory and in the glory of Elis Father, and in the glory of all the hely angels? This question will be fully answored in the next article. T have dwelt somewhat briefly on the foregoing topics as I desire to heaten on to "The Signs of His Coming." All may and should know where we are standing to-day in the world's history. The great question that should concern all is. " How will His coming affect me?" Let me say on the positive authority of the Bible (as all will see later) that His coming will be the happiest of all occasions for a few, but the valdest experience for nearly all the world. I wish it might be otherwise.

The hardest thing in this world is to find is a man or women who will believe serve, and obey God. Profession, with out the doing counts for worse than nothing, for the nearer one comes to being genuine and then is not, the worse sounterfeit he is, " For not the beavens of the law are just before God, but the doors of the law shall be: justified." Rom, 2: 13.

" Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way. that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way. which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Matt. 7: 18-14.

" THE ARK ON MT. CATARACT."

The magazine of a high school in the I de of Thanet gives the following answers luring a geography lesson :-

" The Pyrainids are a range of mounteins separating France from Spain." " Cataract is the name of the mountain in which the Ark rested." " The Mediterranean is joined to the Pod Son by the Sewage Capal. " The hole in the top of a volcano, out of which the lather comes, is called the

OPIUM CULTIVATION IN CHINA.

The Times correspondent at Peking, in a telegram dated August 7th, says Further proof of the extensive recrudescence of the cultivation of opium in China comes from Hunan, where numerous instances have recently been recorded in which the Government deputies appointed by destroy the crop have been defied, waten, or murdered. The people were originally velicemently opposed to the sup pression, but were successfully compelled to conform to the official restrictions with regard, to the cultivation," side, and consumption. Popular feeling is, however, now manifesting itself in favour of a return to the former conditions, for cultivation is again widespread this season and smuggling is general. The number of smoking permits issued has been reduced to a minimum; but anaking in undiminished, while the divame at Changeha, which were closed under the old Government, are (radually being reopened.

THE SCOT IN PEACOCK'S NOVELS.

(From Our Scottish Correspondent) The average Scot has rarely any ob jection to the play of humour or satire round his alleged or notorious characteristics, -some of the worst stories and jokes against him are, indeed, of Scottish manufacture. A good example of this tolerance of caricture is to be found in the present vogue of Thomas Love Peacock's movels among all circles North of the ! Tweed. Of course in Peacock's handling of the Scot there is apparent the influence of the eighteenth century tradition. Boswell tells us that Johnson once "produced a roar of applause" by road that leads him to England." It is in the spirit of this sally that Peacock, -whose literary affinities were rather with the eighteenth century than with his own,deals with Scotland and the Scot. It must be said, however, that in submitting to this ordeal the Scot is in good company, since Byron, Southey, Coloridge, and Sir Walter Scott did not escape Peacock's satire. "Are we alive after all this censure ?" was the comment with which Byron good humovredly disposed of the attack.

A writer in the "Glasgow Herald" has taken the trouble to pick out some of the abuse of the Scots from Peacock's novels. and it is an extraordinary collection. " Crotchet Castle," Ebenezer MacCrotchet, -surely it was a false touch to drop the "Mac" later on, -is represented as coming to London "with all his surplus; capital not very neatly tied up in a not local harbour, it is contended, will said to have "derived from his mother the instinct, and from his father the rational principle, of earithing himself at the expense of the rest of mankind." The MacCrotchets are described as money-grubbers, but MacLaurel and Mac-Quedy are ridiculed as pretentious bores. MacQuedy - "Mac Q. E. D., the son of a MacCrotchet view of life. He denies, on the authority of "the pheelosophers of Edinbroo'," that there is "ony sic thing as discenterestedness in the warld," because " every mon is the centre o' his ain system. an' endaivours as much as possible to adapt everything around him to his ain parteccular views." MacLaurel is an exponent of that Edinburgh philosophy that Carlyle thundered against in "Sartor"-" a vain jargon of controversial metaphysic." will reduce the finest action to its lowest terms. " " A paisant saves a mon's life for the same reason that a footpad cuts his thrapple, because it is conformable to his ain partecular feeling o' the moral an' poleetical feetness o' things." Peacock's "incurable prejudice against Scots,"-as his biographer terms it, is further illustrated in MacLaurel's attitude politics. He is pictured as an unrequirements." blushing opportunist. "The mair popular. ye happen to be the better price ye fetch." MacQuedy is drawn with less rancour than MacLaurel, but he belongs to the same school, though he no longer addresses us in the Doric. He also is a true son of the Aufklarung. "That is Mr MacQuedy, the Modern Athenian," says Lady Clarinda in "Crotchet Castle," "he lays down the law demonstration", -is said, with

M'Cullock, the political economist, whom.

Peacock met at James Mill's. MacLaurel in

"Headlong Hall" may be said to present us with the philosophic vindication of the

about everything, and therefore may be taken to understand everthing." To Mac-Quedy civilisation is just " respect for pro- resources of China will come to the aid value in the open market, is a curiosity. Japan a favourable trade balance, which He has MucLaurel's profound veneration will enable her to maintain the gold value for "Edinbroo" the Modern Athens, of the yen without any strain, and will This was a claim in behalf of Edinburgh permit of either a more rapid redemption that roused in a special degree the ire of Peacock, and through the lips of Dr Folliott of the foreign debt of the country. he pours scorn on it in "Crotchet Castle." "Modern Athens, sir ! the assumption is personal affront to every man who has a sophocles in his library." But MacQuedy was not so easily silenced. "Métaphysics, sir; metaphysics, Logic and moral philosophy. There we are at home. The Athenians only sought the way and we have found it. A literary supper in sweet Edinbroo' would cure you of the prejudice you seem to have against us.

As time passed, a more urbane note made itself heard in Peacock's works.

MacQuedy is an improved MacLand MacQuedy is an improved MacLaurel, while MacBorrowdale in Gryll Grange" is Peacock's most favourable specimen of the Scot. At last, Peacock is willing to recognise that the Scot has humour. MacBorrowdale is the kindly Scot." shrewd and pawky, fonder of a joke and a bottle than of an argument. What is your opinion. Mr MacBorrowdzie?" a ked Lord Curryfin, a prigiah young peer hold to the opinion I have already expressed, that this is as good a glass of port as ever I tasted. It mean your opinion of music and musical instruments." The organ is very good for pasing which i never sing, and the pisholorie for just which I hever dance.

It is interesting to note that one of Peacock's most intimate friends in the later years of his life was a Scottish man of letters-Robert Buchanan. Buchanan sought out Peacock in the sixties, and had the kindest reception. He has borne witness to the "delicious personality" of the older man. The presence of Mac-Borrowdale in "Gryll Grange," and the friendship with Buchanan, may surely be taken as indicating that the "inveterate prejudice" had been greatly softened if not entirely removed by the hand of time.

SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

EDINSTROR, August 6. THE SUGAR CONVENTION. In Virginia Street, Glasgow, the headthe remark that "the noblest pro pect quarters of the Scottish sugar brokers, which a Scotsman ever sees is the high and in Greenock, the seat of our sugar refineries, strong hostility is displayed towards the Government because of their action in withdrawing from the Brussels Sugar Convention. During the last seven or eight years, the industry in Greenock has been in a flourishing condition; looking forward to a continuation of the Convention, several of the refiners have lately carried out large extensions in their works, especially in the matter of providing greater storage accommodation; and they fear that much, if not all the money thus invested will be lost. Greenock, they say, could stand onlits merits in fair competition, but that it eannot fight against, bounty-fed products. Some of the leading merchants, indeed declare that the sugar industry in the west will once more be ruined. - The clean handkerchief." And he is suffer; raw sugar and hectroot are practically its whole trade. FINANCIAL CONDITION OF JAPAN, # The "Financial and Economic Condition of Japan," issued by the Japanese Government, has received editorial notice in several of the leading Scottish newspapers. The "Scotsman" remarks that ground, to have had as his original " Netwithstending a financial crisis in the Unifed States, a failure of the rice crop in Japan, revolutionary outbreaks in the Yangtse Valley of China, and other adverse incidents, Japan has, since the termination of the war, made some progress, not only in debt redemption, but especially in a reduction of the debt charges. One could wish that whilst converting so much of the 5 per cent. debt into a stock bearing a lower rate of interest Japan had also been able to offect a greater reduction in the aggregate amount of her debt. It seems to be the same story all over the world, and Japan is now paying the penalty which seems to be inseparable, from a higher state of civilisation-namely, a growing debt, if not abroad at home, and if not for national purposes, at any rate for local

The "Glasgow Herald" says :-"Japaneso statesmen were remarkably skilful in raising the money for the prosecution of the war, and it is to be prosumed that they will be able to rise to the occasion and deal with a position which is certainly not less difficult. It is to be hoped that active trade all over the world and rapid development of the and a Roman camp, having no of Mr. Yamamoto in once more giving

JAPANESE JUSTICE IN KOREA. RECENT advices from Tokyo inform us that the trial of the Koreans, charged with conspiring against the life of the Governor General, has been re-opened. It will be recalled that that the Courts of Korea are not inthe previous trial came suddenly to dependent organs of Justice, but ar an end through the combined action practically arbitrary, organs of military defence protesting against the parti- the accused the foreigners, whose imality of the Judges appointed to try plication in the "conspiracy" is openthe case. As in the trial of Yang Ki Tak-the cause celebre of 1908 (the sequel of the Prosecutor and acquit the prisoners, Bethell trial)-Japanese administration of justice towards the Koreans has not shown up in a good light; whilst the action of the police still less so. In fact in any other country save Korea the apparently well-supported charges of torture brought against the police would be a public scandal and the immediate cause of a far-reaching investigation and they were obtained by torture; but reform. RAMBLING NOTES.

Hongrong residents surely cannot complain in these days that they are not well provided for by way of public entertainment-and entertainment of a very high order too. During the past week we have had the Bandmann Opera Company at the Theatre, and, as usual, they have nightly given an excellent account of their versatile talents. This is the third visit of the Company this year, and judging by the very satisfactory audiences at each performance, the conclusion has been arrived at by Hongkong playgoers that "One cannot get too much of a good

It may be anticipated as an histrionic treat. The plays of Mr. Shaw are much too rarely seen, and should therefore be given hearty welcome. Such old favourites as 'The School for Scandal," "David Garrick," "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, 'The Liars " and " Salome " are also these plays have doubtless been seen by most Hongkong playgoors; but as good plays well acted are not too often performed in our Colony, they also should be heartily welcomed.

Some time ago he purchased a concubine from one of the Shin Tongs, whither probably the woman had been taken, that she might escape from the life she had been living. for she had been an inmate of one of houses of ill-fame. She had lived in the home of Lau for sometime; when by some means or other she was brought into conas the Chinese say " she moved her affections towards him, rolled up her mat, and secretly fled." Lau, by means of spies working through the police, found out her residence, and had her and the man arrested. They were then brought up for examination before a local judge. According to the evidence, the woman said that when she was bought by Lau she had saved up eight hundred dollars, and this sum he dissipated? He then forced her to follow her old course of life, and he himself took charge of her earnings. Then thirdly the old motherin-law was an impossible woman. She used to whip the girl, and brutally illtreat her, and also took away all jewellery and pawned it so that she had. nothing left of her own. Indeed, Mr. Lau, by his treatment forced her to find real marriage between the two, that to say, she was a concubine and not the marriage contract. Such being the case it was decided that she should be November. other man. In regard to her paramour, wrong, it was decided that he should let off free. But Mr. Lau is not satisfied with the decision, and as now there is the option of an appeal, and cases may be taken to a higher court, he has decided to appeal, and take the case to a more intelligent judge. His argument seems to have some force in it. He asks indignantly, "How is it possible that he should allow the woman to live the life suggested seeing that he and his family have plenty of money." How this domestie muddle will end remains to be seen but it illustrates clearly enough the need for denstic reforms in the laws of the Cabinet Dimoulties Growing.

London, August 10.

These are topsy-turvy' days, with cleavages on various questions in almost every sect and party, but of thom all the ministerialists seem to be in the wors plight. They have given the country the most severe stirring up that has ever been experienced in the same number of years and the country is longing for peace. I de not attach so much importance to th sweeping majority of north-we-t Mancheste an most people do, for elections have a knack of giving governments hard knocks and reverting to their allegiance at the next general election; but even many Liberals admit that if the constituencies have to be faced in the near future they have very ible prospect of regaining office. They buoy-themselves up with hope that they may be able to hang on long snough for the Insurance Act to get into fuller work-As an example of the situation, the ling so that, as they put it, the people may see the benefits for which they are paying. are harvesting in boats, the sheaves But, on the other hand, there are those being landed on higher ground. The who predict the woeful failure of the Act, and these declare the longer the Liberals | Colonial Office: put off the fight the harder will be the blow they will receive.

Moreover, little confidence is now felt in the new land programme. The moneye Liberals are against it and even the ballon d'essai that was sont up by its advocates has shown what a hopeless split it would produce in the party. Then the retirement of the Chief Whip, the Master of Elibank and the drooping majorities in the House have added to the gloom, and even the irrepressible Mr. Lloyd George took steps to have a resolution on the land question withdrawn from programme before the Midland Li'eral Federation. To that must be added the fact that any delay on the part of the government now means giving the Labour party time to organise their plans to carry out the new scheme of forcing a triangular contest wherever they consider they have a sporting chance of success. True, the labour men are split too, but so long as the triangular contests are there, that fact does not make the Liberals more cheerful. But for the fact that the Conservatives are without a good fighting policy, they would be in a splendid position.

TITANIC RESULTS. The first business of the House when i resumes will be the discussion of the Titanic Report. There are two amendments on the paper, identical in terms, in the names of Mr W. R. Pringle and Mr Basil Peto, asking for the appointment a -Select Committee to inquire into the working of the Marine Department of the Board of Trade, and to report what changes ought to be made in its organisation.

Mr Fringle sat through all the inquiry as the representative of a union to which Lord Mersey for some reason did not see stant and skilled onlooker he saw perhaps more of the game than many of these engaged in it. It is the opinion of a very large number of members on bot sides of the Ecuse that the Report Messrs.. Vernon and Smyth, stock fails in candour in dealing with the Marine Department of the Board. All the painstaking fairness of Siz Rufus Issaes does not make it less unfortunate that by the rules on which the inquiry was conducted the case for the plaintiff, which Shell Transports, 108/6 buyers; Pahang | was the nation, and the case for one of the shief defendants, which was the Board Trade, were conducted together. Nor has the common talk which condones the leniency of the Report on the ground of the recent retirement of the late head of the Department much to recommend it. The question is not merely the bygone one of why the Board Trade's Marine Department went to sleet in 1894 and s'ept till the sinking of the Titanic woke it, but what steps are going to be taken to ensure its not going to sleep again. It is highly improbable that in the circumstances, and in view of the undoubted support on both sides of the House for the amendment proposed, the Government will be able, or will desire, to resist the appointment of a Select

I understand this method has been employed frequently and successfully in salvage operations; and the Departmental Committee recently appoint ed by the President of the Board of Trade to advise on the water tight sub-division of all clauses of merchant vessels is, it is understood, to investigate its possibilities. In case of emergency on the open ocean, however, its adoption may not be practicable, but all the same there is good

"The second, that no departure in foreign policy, involving Imperial interests, should be taken without the approval of

. "In order to achieve these results some modification of practice in the government of this country and of the Dominions would be necessary. Some concessions would have to be made; some sacrifice of oldfushioned pride on the one hand, and some abandonment of axaggerated independence on the other. British ministers should realise that future to choose a foreign policy which may land the Empire in war, and expect material help from Canada; while Canadians should understand that, if they desire to fly the Union Jeck, they must face the fact that Great Britain is a European Power, and be ready to shoulder a share of the European burden." KAISER AS COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER. There is no doubt about it-the Kaiser In the Vortex, by Clive Holland. is a splendid commercial traveller. The George Wendern Gave a Party, by John latest instance of it is in the securing, by the Vulcan Company of Hamburg, of the contract for the construction of a Greek cruiser in the face of keen British competition. But how the Germans got the order is curious. Their first price was £1,400,000, while the lowest British offer was £1,167,550 for a larger and faster vessel. Yet the Germans were allowed to cut their tender down and finally got the order at the price of

Yet in its last report the Vulcan Co. said - " A continuance of the existing conditions, which for the building of war and merchant ships can only be described as ruinous, can only lead to bankruptcy at no very remote period". Most of the German yards paid no dividend last year. But the Kaiser in this last case was anxious to get the order, and was so delighted that when he succeeded he gave nearly twelve hundred pounds for distribution among Greek charities. Every time he takes a tour some big commercial crop seems to follow and this Greek case is no exc ption. A LEVEL HEADED CABINET.

Level headed-let me hasten to explain -not as my personal opinion as to their capacity, but from the strict hatter's point of view. This, anyway, is the curious fact—the heads of the Master of Elibank, Mr Lloyd George and Mr Asquith take the same size and shape of hat exactly. This has only just been discovered, for nobody to look at them would suppose the fact. When Mr Asquith made his rapturous entry into Dublin the other day some ardent Hibernian annexed his hat as a memento. So he b rrowed the headgear of the retiring Chief Whip and wore it with serenity and complete comfort all the way back to London. A day or two later the Chancellor and the Chief Whip happened to go to a meeting together. Mr Lloyd George left first and went off in blissful ignorance of the fact that he was wearing the hat of the Master of Elibank. When the meeting was over the Master took the Chancellor's hat and wore it, without any discovery of the fact till later on he met-the Chancellor again. But Mr Winston Chuchill must be exempted from the rule of standard sizes. His bead is the biggest of the lot, and his appearance usually suggests that he has and great difficulty in find a hat big enough to enclose his cranium.

Indo-China figured fargely at the congress of the Association for the Advance ment of Science which has just been hold at Nimes. The monetary experiment of Indo-Chins was wedged in as a subject for discussion among such varied topics as the utilisation of high altitudes for agricultural purposes, the best method of getting rid of superfluous hairs on the face, the virtues of "! light baths," and the effect of ultraviolent rays on becteroids.

The greatest interest was taken in the announcement that by a recent decision of the Governor of Indo-Chins the value of the plastre, formerly worth two france forty contimes, was raised to two france fifty, and made equal to ten "monos." It was explained that the idea of making one mono equal a tenth of pinstre was to simplify calculations in the conversion of Japanese money thus bringing American, Chinese, Japanese and French coinage into harmony. Incidentally it was mentioned that British money Gald come in, the sovereign being equal to one hundred monos and the shill-

THE INDIAN COMMISSION. Lord Ronaldshay and Mr Ramsay Mac. donald, who have accepted seats on the Indian civil administration inquiey, will probably go into residence in India in the next, two winters, returning to their parliamentary duties in the summer. In the meantime Mr James Parker, Labour Member for Halifax, will lead the Labour men in the House in the absence of his chief, though it is generally believed that Mr. Ramsay Macdonald will be glad gracefully to ratire from Westminster, especially as the tendency of syndicalism is altogether distasteful to him and syndicalism has the car of a large section of the workers to-day.
